Extraction section about Thulani khumalo

From an early age my mother taught me how to sustain myself by selling second clothes with her as a business person, it then grew as I saw how I enjoyed interacting with different people whilst making cash in my pocket. Growing up in a poor environment also contributed to me being a natural survivor that adapts in any situation. As a natural salesperson, that led me to have that crave of doing business in my spare time. From then on I convinced my mother to stock a box of diluted fruit juices seeing the hot sunny days in that summer and that the only thing people could consume was fuzzy drinks, ice cream and cold drinks, nothing healthy. I then began to stock and went door to door selling diluted fruit juice concentrates that my mother helped me to stock. It later grew into something that I enjoyed doing more than playing with friends and so I later started my own mobile car wash business which i operated every afternoon washing cars in my customer's garage using my bucket and scrubbing materials.As i was doing that,i saw a gardening business opportunity with many people having beautiful gardens and maintaining them every weekend.From then on i decided to go into this lawn mower business and I bought a lawn mower/grass cutter machine that i used to start my garden business which i also operated on weekends.i enjoyed the thrill of making my own money hence its my drive currently in starting my own innovative plumbing company.i was able to do door to door selling,engaging with the community.so most of my skill set is business oriented.
